Navigating the talent crisis

Leaders today face a difficult challenge. You are being asked to recruit and retain the people who will be the future of your business – and to do it more efficiently and effectively than ever before. But in today's unpredictable and fast-changing world, this is easier said than done.

Business leaders must ensure:

- Successful recruitment for critical job roles
- Demonstrable ROI from high-volume graduate recruitment
- Accurate success profiles to match potential talent against
- The ability to uncover and differentiate between high performers and high-potential talent
- Live succession plans that deliver business growth
- Successful means to invest, engage, retain and develop your talent

At Peoplewise, these are problems we can help you solve.

Your strategic talent solutions partner

As an award-winning business psychology consultancy, with over 20 years of research, experience and insight gained in leadership and psychometric science, what we are really good at is reliably measuring and developing people's potential.

CIPD

PersonnelToday

"Very few talent providers in the market were able to offer a robust approach to identify potential, 'fit' with our company values and have the gravitas to work with the executive team. Throughout our work together we have, without exception, received exceptional service grounded in professional excellence... The insight we now have of the leadership capability is being used to inform strategy and shape the future organisation."

Better data, fewer doubts

There is a science to making good talent decisions. We can help you master it.

Too many organisations hire and promote the wrong people because they make decisions based on poor data (or no data at all).

- Basing decisions on hearsay, reputation and anecdotal evidence
- Assuming past performance in one role predicts future potential in another
- Measuring too many of the wrong things and not enough of the right things
- Not having success profiles in place to compare candidates against

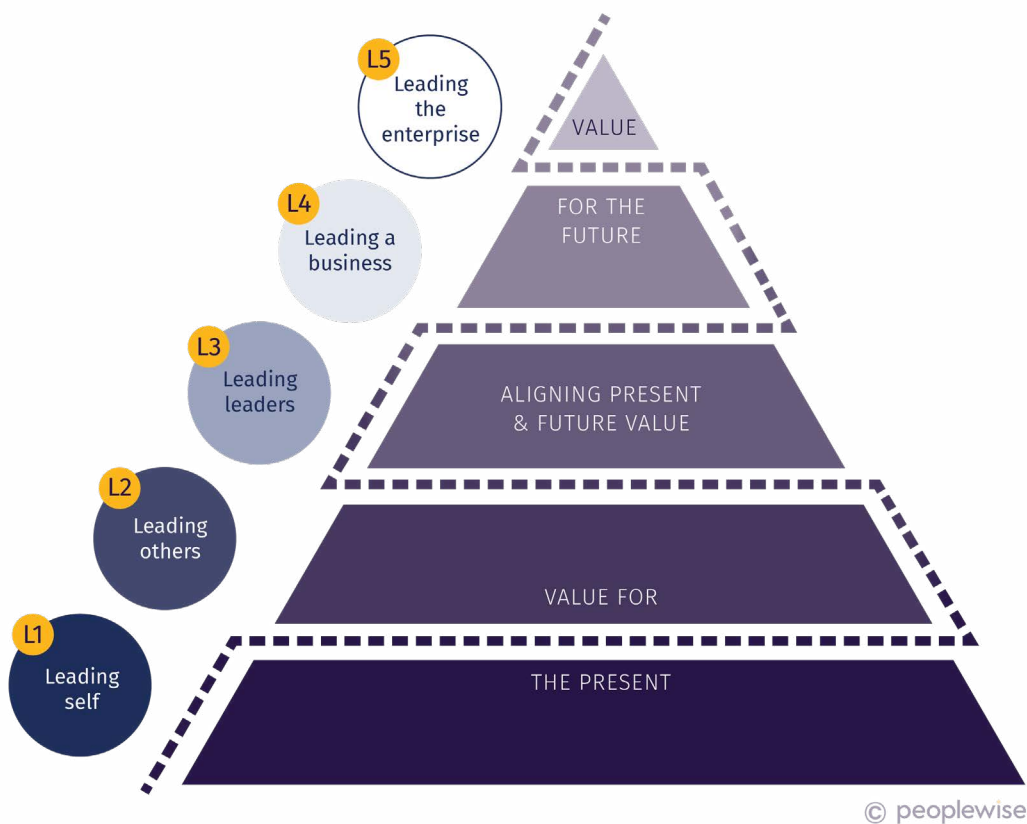

Getting it wrong is a costly drain on budgets, time and resources. So, how do you get it right?

Through our research and applied science, we invest significantly in understanding what truly predicts success in the workplace. Our rigorous approach and expertise in psychometric science give you greater clarity, certainty and confidence to make data-driven decisions.

HOW WE GET RESULTS

Know your talent

Our Leadership Transition model blends foremost theories of organisational development with our own research to pinpoint talent needs across all levels of an organisation: from Leading Self to Leading the Enterprise.

Our proven model for assessing and developing talent at every level provides critical insights into:

- ☆ The right assessment and development strategies to realise individual and organisational growth potential
- ☆ Skills and capabilities needed for success at progressive levels of an organisation
- ☆ Levels that individuals are comfortable and motivated to operate at
- ☆ Individual readiness and likelihood of success at a horizontal transition (within a level) or vertical stretch transition (to a more senior level)
- ☆ The right development methods to achieve successful transitions, mapped into role complexity, time horizon and critical capabilities to be developed

Perspectives™ leadership and talent assessment solution:

What it measures

Our Perspectives™ Leadership and Talent (PLT) Assessment Solution is based on years of experience and research into the key determinants that predict leadership success. The four identified domains – Potential, Competencies, Motivators and Derailers – together form our PLT Model.

In addition to predicting differences in performance, these four domains are correlated with key organisational outcomes, including employee engagement, retention, productivity, and discretionary effort and commitment.

Potential

the psychological capabilities required for success

Competencies

the behavioural skills required for success

Motivators

the values and preferences associated with the degree of fit between an individual and organisation

Derailers

the counterproductive risk factors that can cause difficulties for otherwise successful people

Together, these provide four distinct perspectives to 'see' which individuals will succeed in which roles and at which organisational level.

Perspectives™ leadership and talent assessment solution:

What it delivers

Our Perspectives™ Leadership and Talent (PLT) Assessment Solution offers a unique and targeted approach to assessing individuals across the talent lifecycle. Powered by our Enable technology platform, the process comprises three components: a success profile, an assessment of the 4 PLT domains, and reporting outputs tailored to talent management applications at each level of an organisation, including leadership selection and development, high-potential identification, succession, talent pool identification and professional development.

Success profile

The success profile component provides a data-driven criterion that represents 'what success looks like' in a given role or at a particular level in your organisation. The success profile captures the unique combination of psychological and behavioural capabilities as well as the values and preferences associated with job role success and organisational fit. It also provides insight into an individual's counterproductive risk factors that may become derailers.

Assessment

The assessment component comprises psychometric-based information, derived from our intuitive PLT online assessment. To compliment this robust data, for more senior roles we recommend a psychological insights interview conducted by one of our in-house psychologists.

Reporting outputs

These components are then used to inform the reporting outputs, which vary according to the assessment solution and include platform data and a variety of reports.

While we recommend all three elements of the PLT Assessment Solution process, not all talent needs require the development of a success profile. In these cases, the assessment and reporting components are entirely adequate as a talent solution.

Psychometrics

Developed based on psychometric science and over two decades of scientific and workplace research, our psychometrics offer a valid assessment of people's cognitive capabilities and behavioural strengths for your business. Through a range of tools, we also assess individual and team styles, preferences and dimensions, all mapped to your assessment needs.

All of our psychometrics are globally validated, and Perspectives PsyCap Potential is registered with the British Psychological Society (BPS), meaning you can rely on our assessments with total confidence.

All our assessments and their outputs are hosted on our Enable technology platform, which offers a unique data lens through which to know your talent, understand your business and make better data-driven decisions.

Whether your talent objectives require a single psychometric or an assessment solution across the talent lifecycle, our assessment offer can accommodate your every need.

Individual assessments

Our digital self-assessment tools provide participants with a seamless assessment experience and offer your organisation meaningful data to assist in talent acquisition and talent management decisions. All our individual assessments include development reports with an option for coaching feedback, enabling participants time and space to explore, reflect and build development plans.

Team assessments

Our digital team-based assessments provide team insights, pinpoint strengths and risks and accelerate growth performance. We also offer expertly facilitated team sessions to deepen team connections, build understanding and trust and enhance team growth.

Culture assessments

Our digital culture assessments provide business-wide insights into the cultural landscape of an organisation.

Based on our extensive research into what differentiates a thriving change-ready culture, our 7 Pillars of Positive Change model indicates people's ability, individually and collectively, to thrive (not just survive) in disruptive and challenging environments.

When all seven pillars are in flow, people engage with change positively and the organisation is highly adaptive and fit for transformation.

Psychometrics

Globally validated psychometrics

PsyCap Potential™

Potential is one of the four domains of our Perspectives Leadership and Talent Model, and here is offered as a single assessment of the five critical psychological capabilities that predict leadership potential: Mental Agility, Emotional Agility, Confidence, Resilience and Drive.

Best uses:

- High volume and general recruitment
- Graduate recruitment and development
- High potential identification
- Succession planning
- Personal and leadership development
- Coaching

Derailers Profiler™

Sometimes even the most promising and accomplished leaders and working professionals develop potentially counterproductive personality characteristics that can derail performance, progression and business growth. The Derailers Profiler measures the nine risk factors that make up an individual's risk profile: Egotistic, Fearless, Bold, Single-minded, Calculating, Pragmatic, Detached, Competitive, Antagonistic.

Best uses:

- Identifying high-risk characteristics in individuals of varied corporate status and position
- High-risk job role screening
- Personal and Leadership development
- Coaching

Mental Agility Profiler™ (MAP)

Assess, in-depth, the cognitive capability to excel at problem solving and strategic thinking in complex, ambiguous environments.

Best uses:

- High volume and general recruitment
- Graduate recruitment and development
- High potential identification
- Personal and leadership development
- Coaching
